

Pinkerton's Global Risk Group helps you pinpoint and plan for potential threats across the globe.

Pinkerton's Global Risk Group (GRG) tracks and interprets rapidly changing world events, alerting you to developments that could impact the safety and security of your operations and assets.

Overview

Pinkerton's Global Risk Group (GRG) is the industry-leading resource for delivering innovative, dependable and cost effective situational awareness solutions for your business. Staying ahead of threats in proximity to your areas of concern will determine your ability to protect multinational operations and brands, or manage corporate travel programs. With expert reporting and analysis, near-real-time alert notification, and cutting-edge technology providing appropriate context, the GRG tracks rapidly changing world events to keep you apprised of developments that could impact the safety and security of your assets and operations.

We analyze vast amounts of information, identifying what really impacts you

There is a proliferation of information available today. It can be overwhelming sorting through all of it, trying to determine what data is important and which has the most impact. Pinkerton GRG does just that for you. Instead of dumping data on your desk, we utilize our expertise to manage your solutions and interpret the resulting information to help you clearly see and understand both the big picture and minute details that could affect your operations and its value.

The Global Risk Group is comprised of highly experienced individuals with backgrounds in civilian and military intelligence as well as traditional security fields. You can trust our abilities to help you identify problems before they happen and then work with you on solutions to prevent or mitigate them.

In addition, GRG has created the Pinkerton Vigilance™ Network to access a unique system of resources around the world. This global network combines human intelligence with proprietary and open-source data feeds. As a result, when you tap into Pinkerton's Global Risk Group you get the most timely and reliable situational awareness available today.

Intelligence & Information Services

Reporting

From highlights of global activity and major world events to specific geographies or areas of most concern to your business, you can receive intelligence with expert analysis on a daily, weekly or as-needed basis. Our global staff includes intelligence analysts from the military, public, and private sectors with an array of subject matter and regional expertise. These analysts are on call 24/7 to answer any questions regarding the content of our reports.

Specialized Reporting & Alerting Topics:

Transportation
Travel Warnings
Civil Disorder
Natural Disaster
Maritime Piracy
Terror/ Armed Conflict
Critical Infrastructure
Health Warning
Geo-Political + Commerce
Brand Protection
Crime & Corruption

Alerting

Email or SMS text alert notifications such as our Global Critical Incident or Specialized Alert feeds, are issued by a dedicated team of Pinkerton specialists. These highly skilled individuals utilize our in-house and proprietary technology to detect, classify and report current and imminent events and situations in near-real-time. We rely on our global, human-based Pinkerton Vigilance™ Network to supplement open-source data feeds such as social media, local news, and police/fire/EMS networks. These feeds are CAP-compliant and filtered specifically to provide information vital to your personnel, facility and brand protection. Alerts can be viewed on our Risk Monitoring Dashboards and tied to unlimited static locations or mobile GPS beacons.

Risk Monitoring Dashboards

Risk Monitoring Dashboards provide you a visual representation of aggregated information tailored to help you better track potential threats nearest your key locations. Our custom dashboards provide unlimited location mapping and CAP-based filtration, allowing you to stay ahead of issues with your offices, distribution points, and vendors. Add in a GPS solution and monitor travelling employees or your supply chain in context with your mapped facilities and intelligence sources.

GPS Solutions

Monitor traveling executives and your supply chain, or provide support to your executive protection professionals or employees in the field through GPS solutions provided by Pinkerton's Global Risk Group. Signals can be transmitted from an application downloaded to a smart phone or tablet, as well as a variety of standalone devices. Couple this service with our Risk Monitoring Dashboards and see in near-real-time the global location of your assets next to local news and social media reports, or add an alert package and receive near-real-time alert notifications specific to the geo-fence established around your personnel in the field.

Intelligence & Information Services

Analyst Solutions

When you take advantage of Pinkerton's Analyst Solutions you will experience intelligence professionals at your disposal to help you identify actual threats and determine how best to counteract them.

These highly trained and experienced analysts are able to create intelligence reporting, function as on-site managers for Risk Monitoring Dashboards, and provide you access to the Pinkerton Vigilance™ Network. We provide reliable interpretation of information and can help you develop specific risk mitigating protocol that best fits your company's needs.

Pinkerton analysts are available on a temporary basis or can be embedded full-time. We provide flexible and scalable solutions that fit your business' changing requirements.

Pinkerton Fusion Centers: For the ultimate risk management solution, create an intelligence hub with a Pinkerton Fusion Center. Our deep expertise in fusion center design and startup allows us to take a process-driven approach towards establishing the optimal intelligence center for your organization's specific needs.

- We provide dedicated analysts embedded in your operations team.
- Our experienced analysts work with – and pull information from – each of your company's crucial departments throughout the organization.
- We supplement your internal information with the Pinkerton Vigilance™ Network.

Unlike other fusion centers that analyze information only on a department-by-department basis, Pinkerton creates an intelligence hub to review, analyze and integrate all available intelligence information enterprise-wide. Our analysts then prepare and disseminate reports to key stakeholders throughout the company. This ensures that all stakeholders have the same vital information that could affect the organization and its employees.

About The Pinkerton Vigilance™ Network

Make faster decisions with better information by leveraging a global network of comprehensive knowledge and resources.

The Pinkerton Vigilance™ Network allows you to tap into the collective expertise and assets of America's oldest and most esteemed investigative agency. Analysts from the public and private sector continuously share information with professionals around the world who are members of our network.

As a result of this collaboration, you gain access to the most inclusive, near-real-time information available anywhere; from a collection of trusted experts.

In addition to providing you a continuous flow of valuable information, Pinkerton helps you understand exactly what data specifically affects you and has the potential to have the greatest impact. This in-depth, near-real-time information and analysis can help you be proactive rather than forced to respond.
