Securitas USA has supported our military veterans through a variety of programs over the years.

This past May, Securitas USA participated in its first "Jeans for Troops Day" by offering administrative employees the opportunity to make a $5 donation to the program. Those employees who participated could dress down in jeans on "Jeans for Troops Day" - May 21. As a result, Securitas USA employee contributions, along with a contribution from the division management team, amounted to a little over $7,000.00.

This program benefits the GI Go Fund, a non-profit charitable organization that provides assistance to all military veterans, with a focus on veterans who served in Iraq and Afghanistan. The GI Go Fund provides veterans with innovative ways to find employment and secure their educational and health benefits that are available to them as veterans. The Fund also assists homeless veterans in need of housing as they return from combat.

Securitas USA thanks all employees who contributed to this mission to support and help improve the lives of our returning veterans.

The Marine Core Values: Honor, Courage and Commitment is a mantra I live by each day. The same support and Core Values resonated from those Securitas staff members and managers who were very active in the successful launch and completion of our NJ "Jeans for Troops" program.

As a veteran myself, I am extremely pleased that the company I have worked 5 years for is actively participating and enthusiastic to support our Veterans and Active Military Members.
Thank you
